

Children's Thoughts on Peace: Marking 1 Year of Civil War

What does Peace mean to you?

Nonviolent Peaceforce asked some of the conflict-affected children of South Sudan....

Through the eyes of a 16 year old, this is Peace.

Through the eyes of a young girl, this is Peace.

Through the eyes of an 18 year old, this is Peace.

Through the eyes of a 16 year old, this is Peace.

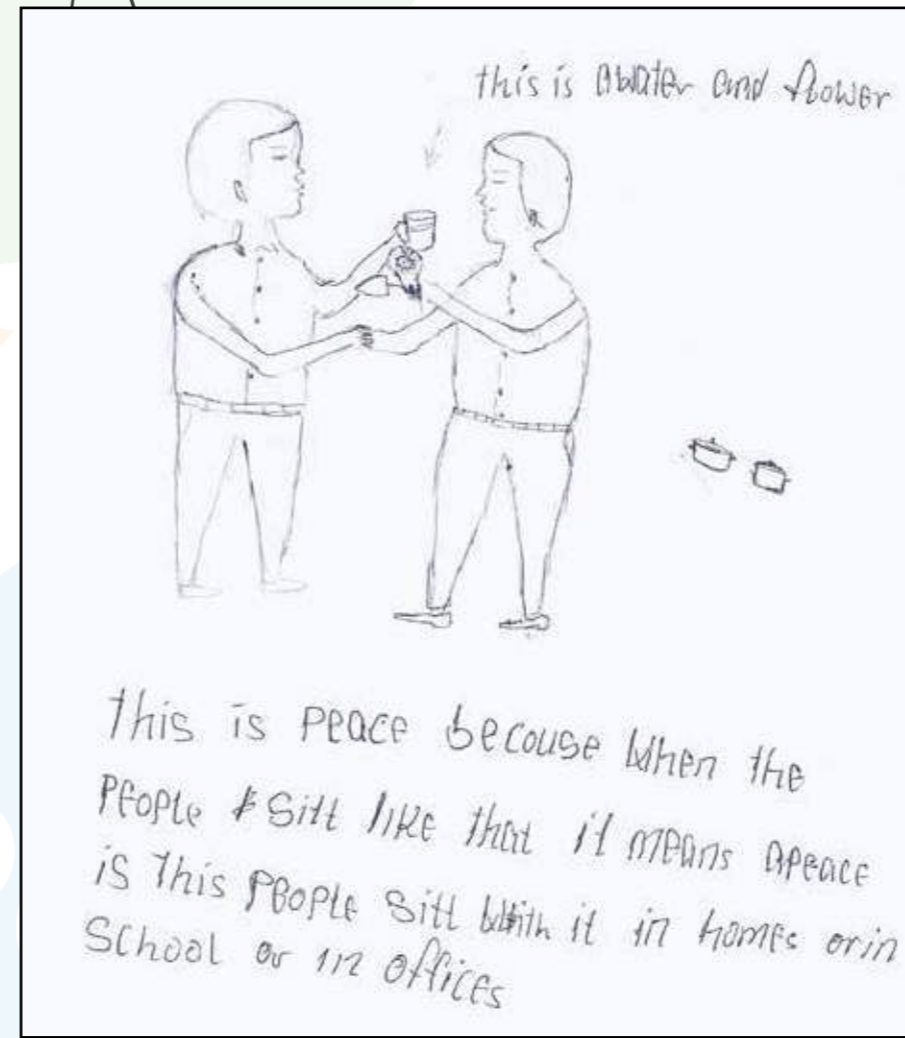

Through the eyes of a 15 year old, this is Peace.

Through the eyes of a 17 year old, this is Peace.

Through the eyes of a 14 year old, this is Peace.

Through the eyes of a 14 year old, this is Peace.

Through the eyes of a 15 year old, this is Peace.

Through the eyes of a 14 year old, this is Peace.

Through the eyes of a 15 year old, this is Peace.

Through the eyes of a 15 year old, this is Peace.

Through the eyes of a 17 year old, this is Peace.

A Message from NP Country Director

Looking back at 2014, we have faced many challenges together. It has been a year of heart-break and hardwork. We have laughed together and cried together as we struggled to come to terms with the reality of the terrible violence that has continued to shake the country. We have learned a great deal, and have been able to contribute to keeping conflict affected people around the country safe. We have welcomed many new colleagues into the family and have sadly bade a few farewell.

Through all of this tragedy, we have been able to continue to develop and improve both the programming and the operational sides of the house. All of these achievements are a testament to you – to each and everyone of you who makes their contribution, who fulfills their responsibilities and who contributes to making sure that we are doing everything we possibly can for improving the safety and security of conflict affected communities.

“Thank You”

So as the year draws to a close, I am filled with gratitude and love for all of you and am looking forward to continuing our struggle together in the new year.
